Canadians Prefer Balanced Budget to More Spending

But support much of the new spending in 2018

Toronto, March 1st – In a random sampling of public opinion taken by The Forum Poll™ among 941 Canadian voters, almost two-thirds (61%) say that a balanced budget is more important to them than more spending on programs and services, while 4 in 10 (39%) say they prefer more spending on programs and services to a balanced budget.

Respondents most likely to say they support a balanced budget include those aged 35-44 (69%), males (70%), earning $80,000-$100,000 (74%), living in Alberta (70%), and supporting the Conservatives (88%).

Three-quarters (76%) of those that say they are less likely to vote Liberal because of the budget say they support a balanced budget.

Respondents most likely to say they support more spending on programs and services include those aged 34 and younger (48%), females (47%), the least wealthy (48%), with a college/university (39%) or post-graduate (42%) degree, living in the Atlantic (48%), the prairies (MB/SK)(47%) or BC (50%), and supporting the NDP (64%).

Almost three-quarters (71%) of those that say they are more likely to vote Liberal because of the budget say they support more spending on programs and services.

Almost three-quarters have seen some news of the budget

7 in 10 (TOP2: 70%) say they have seen some news of the budget, with a quarter (27%) saying they've seen a lot about the budget.

One-third (BTM2: 30%) say they've heard little about the budget, with 1 in 10 (9%) saying they've heard almost nothing.

The plurality disapproves of the budget

4 in 10 (40%) say they disapprove of the budget. One-third (31%) say they neither approve nor disapprove of the budget, while one-sixth (17%) say they approve. About 1 in 10 say they do not know.

Respondents most likely to say they disapprove include those aged 35-44 (49%), males (48%), earning $40,000-$60,000 (48%) or $80,000-$100,000 (51%), living in Alberta (52%), and supporting the Conservatives (70%).

Respondents most likely to say they approve include those aged 55-64 (24%), the least wealthy (25%), with a post-graduate degree (26%), living in Québec (19%), Ontario (18%), or BC (20%), and supporting the Liberals (43%).

“Budgets are a difficult balancing act and can never please everyone, that’s a given,” said Dr. Lorne Bozinoff, president of Forum Research. “But the reaction to the 2018 budget is a strong contradiction: in general, Canadians overwhelmingly say they prefer a balanced budget over more spending, but ask about specific new spending from the budget, and they’re strongly supportive, almost across the board. Overall, the public’s reaction to the budget and to the Prime Minister’s visit to India may be contributing to the Liberals’ overall erosion of support.”

The plurality say they're less likely to vote Liberal in the next election

4 in 10 (44%) say they're less likely to vote Liberal in the next election, while about one-sixth (14%) say they are more likely to vote Liberal. A quarter (28%) say the budget will have no effect on their vote, while another sixth (14%) say they do not know how the budget will effect their vote in the next election.

1 in 10 Liberals (12%) say they are less likely to vote Liberal on account of the budget.

Just over one-third say the budget is bad for the economy

4 in 10 (38%) say that the budget will be bad for the economy. One quarter (27%) said it won't be good or bad, while about one-sixth (15%) say it will be good for the economy. One-fifth (20%) say they do not know if it will be bad or good.

4 in 10 approve of a national pharmacare plan

The plurality (TOP: 43%) say that they would support the introduction of a national pharmacare plan, with a quarter (26%) saying they strongly support such a plan.

One-quarter (BTM2: 25%) say they would oppose a national pharmacare plan, with one-sixth (14%) saying they oppose strongly.

One-sixth (13%) say they do not know.

Almost two-thirds support the budget's conservation initiatives

6 in 10 (TOP2: 62%) say they support the government investing $1.3 billion, over five years, in the conservation of land, waterways, wildlife, and the protection of species at risk, with almost half of all Canadians (45%) saying that they support strongly.

Fewer than one-quarter (BTM2: 21%) say they oppose this investment, with 1 in 10 (13%) saying they oppose strongly.

6 in 10 say they support the anti-addiction investments

Almost two-thirds (TOP2: 60%) say they support the government investing more than $200 million, over five years, to fight opioid addiction in Canada, with 4 in 10 (38%) saying they support strongly.

One-quarter (BTM2: 25%) say they oppose this investment, with one-sixth (16%) saying they oppose strongly. Few (3%) say they do not know.

Two-thirds support free admission for kids to national parks

The government made their free admission to national parks program permanent, and two-thirds (TOP2: 63%) say they support its permanency, with almost half of all respondents (45%) saying they support strongly. Only one-sixth (BTM2: 16%) say they oppose this investment, with 1 in 10 (8%) saying they oppose strongly. Few (3%) say they do not know.

7 in 10 support investment for drinking water on reserves

7 in 10 (TOP2: 69%) say they support the $175 million investment into clean drinking water on First Nations' reserves, with more than half (53%) saying they support strongly.

One-sixth (BTM2: 16%) say they oppose this investment, with 1 in 10 (8%) saying they oppose strongly. Few (4%) say they do not know.

More than half approve of investments in science and technology

More than half of Canadians (TOP2: 57%) say they approve of the $4 billion investment, over five years, for more research and grants in science and technology, with one-third (34%) saying they approve strongly.

One-quarter (BTM2: 23%) say they oppose this investment, with 1 in 10 (11%) saying they oppose strongly.

One quarter says the economy should have been the focus of the budget

One-quarter (28%) said the economy should have been the budget's priority, while one-quarter (22%) said it should have been healthcare. 1 in 10 (13%) said it should have been education or the environment (10%).

1 in 10 (9%) said the priority should have been infrastructure. Equality (5%) and other (6%) were the least selected potential priorities.

1 in 10 (7%) said they do not know what the priority should be.

Support for the Liberals declines

Only one-third (34%) say they would support the Liberals if an election were held today, down 4 points since January (Jan 24: 38%) with almost half (46%) saying they would support the Conservatives, similar to January (Jan 24: 43%)

The NDP (14%) remain third with the Greens (3%) and BQ (2%) effectively unchanged. Few (1%) would support another party.

If an election were held today, we expect to see a Conservative majority of 213 seats. The Liberals would serve as official opposition with 99, the NDP would secure 24, the Greens would keep their 1, and the BQ would be reduced to 1.

Methodology

The Forum Poll™ was conducted by Forum Research with the results based on an interactive voice response telephone survey of 941 randomly selected Canadian Voters. The poll was conducted February 27th-March 1st, 2018.

Results based on the total sample are considered accurate +/- 3%, 19 times out of 20. Subsample results will be less accurate. Margins of error for subsample (such as age, gender) results are available at www.forumresearch.com/samplestim.asp

Where appropriate, the data has been statistically weighted by age, region, and other variables to ensure that the sample reflects the actual population according to the latest Census data.

This research is not necessarily predictive of future outcomes, but rather, captures opinion at one point in time. Actual results depend on the parties' ability to get their voters out. Forum Research conducted this poll as a public service and to demonstrate our survey research capabilities. Forum houses its poll results in the Data Library of the Department of Political Science at the University of Toronto.

With offices across Canada and around the world, 100% Canadian-owned Forum Research is one of the country's leading survey research firms. This Forum Poll™ and other polls may be found at Forum's poll archive at www.forumresearch.com/polls.asp
