Ford Announcement: No Effect on Tory Support

Toronto, September 9th – In a random sampling of public opinion taken by The Forum Poll™ among 658 Toronto voters after Doug Ford’s mayoral race intention announcement, amongst those decided and leaning, in a head’s up race between only John Tory and Doug Ford, Tory maintains the lead over his now declared competitor with the support of about two thirds (64%) of voters, while Doug Ford secures just over a third (36%).

Respondents most likely to support Tory include those aged 34 and under (66%), 45-54 (65%) or 65+ (71%), earning $40,000-$60,000 (71%) or $100,000-$250,000 (75%) with a post-graduate degree (74%), living in the former city of Toronto (69%) or East York (72%), and supporting the provincial Liberal party (74%).

Respondents most likely to support Doug Ford include those aged 55-64 (45%), earning less than $20,000 (48%), $20,000 to $40,000 (42%), $60,000 to $80,000 (45%), the least educated (44%) and those with some college or university (40%), living in Etobicoke (42%) or York (39%), and supporting the provincial PCs (56%)

Add Joe Cressy to the ballot, Tory still wins

In a three-way race between Tory, Ford, and councillor Joe Cressy, little-changes. John Tory would still command a majority of votes (53%), while Ford retains the support of just over a third (35%). In this three-candidate scenario Joe Cressy would secure a tenth of the vote (11%).

Respondents most likely to support Tory over Ford and Cressy include those aged 65+ (65%), earning $40,000-$60,000 (63%), $100,000-$250,000 (62%), with a post-graduate degree (63%), living in East York (62%), supporting the provincial Liberals (60%), and NDP (61%).

Respondents most likely to support Ford over Cressy and Tory include those aged 55-64 (45%), the least wealthy (51%), the least educated (41%), living in Etobicoke (42%), and supporting the provincial PCs (53%).

Respondents most likely to support Cressy over Tory and Ford include those aged 34 and younger (18%), living in East York (17%), with some college or university (15%), and supporting the provincial NDP (20%) or Green Party (27%).

“Doug Ford’s declaration appears to have had no effect on the mayoral horserace – John Tory remains the clear leader,” said Dr. Lorne Bozinoff, President of Forum Research. “Even adding another candidate doesn’t shake Tory’s support, and he still wins handily.”

Tory Approval Steady

The majority (53%) of voters once again approve of John Tory's performance as mayor, overall. Just over a quarter (24%) disapprove, while 2 in 10 (23%) say they don't know. John Tory's net favourable score (approve – disapprove) is a strong +29.

Tory's approval is down 1 point (54%: June 22nd) and his disapproval has likewise dropped 3 points (27%: June 22nd).

"Doug Ford's declaration appears to have had no effect on the mayoral horserace – John Tory remains the clear leader," said Dr. Lorne Bozinoff, President of Forum Research. "Even adding another candidate doesn't shake Tory's support, and he still wins handily."

Methodology

The Forum Poll™ was conducted by Forum Research with the results based on an interactive voice response telephone survey of 658 randomly selected Toronto Voters. The poll was conducted on September 8-9, 2017.

Results based on the total sample are considered accurate +/- 4%, 19 times out of 20. Subsample results will be less accurate. Margins of error for subsample (such as age, gender) results are available at www.forumresearch.com/samplestim.asp

Where appropriate, the data has been statistically weighted by age, region, and other variables to ensure that the sample reflects the actual population according to the latest Census data.

This research is not necessarily predictive of future outcomes, but rather, captures opinion at one point in time. Actual results depend on the candidates' ability to get their voters out. Forum Research conducted this poll as a public service and to demonstrate our survey research capabilities. Forum houses its poll results in the Data Library of the Department of Political Science at the University of Toronto.

With offices across Canada and around the world, 100% Canadian-owned Forum Research is one of the country's leading survey research firms. This Forum Poll™ and other polls may be found at Forum's poll archive at www.forumresearch.com/polls.asp
