FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Liberals Hold Lead Over Conservatives Heading into Election Day

Liberals Within Reach of Majority Government

Toronto, April 27th – In a random sampling of public opinion taken by The Forum Poll™ among 1,153 Canadian voters ahead of the April 28th federal election, 43% of those who are decided or leaning are likely to vote for the Liberal Party while 39% are likely to vote for the Conservative Party. Support for the New Democratic Party (NDP) is at 8%, followed by the Bloc Québécois at 6%, the Green Party at 2%, the People’s Party of Canada (PPC) at 1%, and other parties at 1%.

Liberals on track for majority with 186 seats; Conservatives trail with 122

We project 186 seats for the Liberals, 122 seats for the Conservatives, 29 seats for BQ, and 6 seats for NDP. A party must win at least 172 seats to form a majority government.

“The Liberal Party, led by Mark Carney, appears on track to potentially secure a majority government,” said Dr. Lorne Bozinoff, President of Forum Research. “Our projections show the Liberals are in strong standing, with a majority government within reach.”

The poll was conducted by Forum Research with the results based on an interactive voice response telephone survey of 1,153 randomly selected Canadian residents over the age of 18, 71% by cellphone and 29% on landlines. The poll was conducted on April 27, 2025. Results based on the total sample are considered accurate +/- 4.0%, 19 times out of 20. Subsample and regional results will be less accurate. Margins of error for subsample and regional results are available at www.forumresearch.com/samplestim.asp.
